Teaching Staff

J. Roy Gillis	Normand Labrie
I, J. Roy Gillis, enthusiastically submit my name for the Governing Council seat for OISE Teaching Staff. My experience as a faculty member at OISE (since 1997), Interim Chair of the Department of APHD, and currently on the Executive of the University of Toronto Faculty Association as Chair of the Equity Committee, gives me unique and critical qualifications to serve in this important role. In this period of crucial change and renewed vision for OISE, I intend to advocate for the concerns and best interests of the whole OISE community (students, staff & faculty), and not just the administration. For more information about my goals as your representative on Governing Council, please see: https://www.facebook.com/uoft.governing.council/	An established scholar in sociolinguistics and education, Normand Labrie has extensive experience in academic and public administration, as well as a long-standing engagement for the recognition of social sciences and humanities research at the institutional level, locally, nationally and internationally. He served as Associate Dean with responsibilities in research, graduate studies, international and equity (OISE, 2004-2012), as well as Scientific Director of the Quebec funding agency in the SSH (FRQSC, 2012-2015). He also sat on various Boards including, since 2013, the Intergovernmental Council of the Management of Social Transformation Program, UNESCO's only program in the SSH connecting research evidence and public policy.

Doug McDougall

Mr. Doug McDougall is currently Professor in the Department of Curriculum, Teaching and Learning (CTL) and Associate Dean, Programs, at OISE. Previously he was Chair of CTL (2010-2015), Master of Teaching Coordinator (2000-2009) and Director of the Centre for Science, Mathematics and Technology Education. An experienced academic administrator, Dr. McDougall served on the Academic Board (2005-2014), was Chair (2012-2014) and Vice-chair (2006-2012) of the Committee on Academic Policy and Programs, served on the Academic Appeals Committee and the Academic Board Agenda Committee. As member of the Governing Council, he will continue to protect the University's values and best interests.
