Major program, from the Faculty of Arts and Science to the
John H. Daniels Faculty of Architecture, Landscape, and Design
Brought forward jointly by the Daniels Faculty of Architecture, Landscape and Design and the Faculty of Arts and Science

February 2011

The Faculty of Arts and Science (FAS) currently offers an Honours Bachelor of Arts, Architectural Studies Major program in collaboration with the John H. Daniels Faculty of Architecture, Landscape, and Design (FALD). This proposal seeks approval for the transfer of the Honours BA, Architectural Studies, currently offered by the Faculty of Arts and Science to the John H. Daniels Faculty of Architecture, Landscape, and Design, effective September 1, 2012.

The program would be transferred without any change to curriculum or degree requirements. The Daniels FALD currently delivers all courses required for the major in Architectural Studies and supports the program with administrative staff and an academic program director. This arrangement would continue and would be enhanced. The program would continue to be offered as a broad Liberal Arts program, and students would continue to have access to FAS courses required to complete their degree.

1. Rationale

The Daniels Faculty does not currently offer an undergraduate degree. The former Bachelor of Architecture degree (BArch), a professionally accredited program providing undergraduate education in architecture, landscape architecture and design, was phased out as part of the 1997-2003 academic plan. This closure was in response to larger changes in the profession and in the requirements of the professional accreditation bodies. At writing the path to a professional degree in Architecture and Landscape Architecture in North America varies. Increasingly the norm is for entry to practice in the profession to occur at the master's level. A few historical 5 year undergraduate professional degrees remain. In Canada, all these programs have been or will be phased out in the near future. However, because of the comprehensive requirements of accreditation in Architecture and Landscape Architecture, many programs in Canada offer accredited graduate degrees by "bridging" them to first-entry undergraduate programs (e.g. Ryerson, Carleton, Waterloo which offer pre-professional Baccalaureate and 2 year Masters). The Daniels Faculty's professional graduate programs are distinguished among Canadian Universities for maintaining a stand-alone, three+ year graduate program which accepts students with broad backgrounds in the Arts, Humanities and Sciences. In Canada, only UBC and Calgary offer similar, but smaller fully stand-alone graduate programs.

It is important to distinguish the current BA, Architectural Studies from the historical, professional BArch programs, and current "Four (undergraduate) plus Two (graduate)" programs offered at other institutions. The current BA, Architectural Studies presents students with two possible major concentrations, 'design' or, 'history, theory, criticism' (HTC). This anchor in the majors of design and HTC enables students to obtain a broad-based liberal arts education through minors and elective requirements in other fields of study. Graduates of this program are uniquely prepared to apply to graduate programs in architecture, landscape, and design, but are also well prepared for entry into other graduate programs in, for example planning, geography, business/real estate, sustainable development, public policy, Urban Design, etc., where a design, planning, or liberal arts foundations could be beneficial. They may also enter into the job market for various design and construction-related industries, as well as in non-technical posts in architecture and landscape architecture offices.

This proposal to relocate the BA, Architectural Studies in the Daniels FALD is the result of a natural progression. The Daniels FALD has been instrumental in the inception, conception, course content creation and delivery of the BA, Architectural Studies. Engagement of the Faculty in undergraduate education has been continuous over the past decade. As noted in the external reviewer's report of October 2008, "undergraduate students constitute approximately 40% of current enrolments in courses taught by the Daniels faculty – a substantial component of the Faculty's activities". This continuing focus of the Daniels FALD on the BA, Architectural Studies is underscored by the following:

- a. All listed program faculty hold primary academic appointments at the Daniels FALD
- b. Student enquiries are directed primarily to the Daniels FALD
- c. Upper year students tend to identify primarily with the Daniels FALD

The transfer of the program to the Daniels FALD, is an expression of the Faculty's commitment to its continued vibrancy. The transfer will bring these undergraduate students truly into the administrative and cultural space with which they already identify. This will have the added advantage of placing this small BA, Architectural Studies program, in a Faculty that will be able to provide the fit-to-scale delivery and student support services that will continue to contribute to a positive student experience. Currently, BA Architectural Studies students are heterogeneously affiliated with diverse colleges, connecting broadly with peers in the larger milieu of FAS. The location of the program at the Daniels FALD will deepen the connections with peers in the program, and with graduate students in the discipline, while continuing to facilitate broader engagement in the FAS and across the University through the minor and elective requirements.

Further, the transfer of the program will bring the Daniels FALD into line with its local competitors, as the Faculty does not currently offer a Bachelor's degree. Ryerson University, the University of Waterloo, and Carleton University all offer architecture programs at the undergraduate level. The transfer of the BA, Architectural Studies program to the Daniels FALD will provide the Faculty with a foundation in undergraduate studies to complement its graduate program, in line with, but distinct from other faculties of architecture, landscape and design in the region. The organization of these other programs is on a first-entry model, and tends to be technical in focus. The BA, Architectural Studies will continue to be grounded in the broad-based liberal arts, while engaging student in the constellation of scientific, aesthetic and social theories and practices that not only form the core of knowledge underlying the fields of Architecture, Landscape Architecture and Urban Design, but are key to emerging thinking about sustainable urbanization.

Housing undergraduate architectural studies at the Daniels Faculty will bring the Faculty in line with peers at other research-intensive universities in North America, including UBC, and UC Berkeley, that maintain lively broad-based undergraduate majors housed and staffed within their divisions.

2. Consultation

This proposal has been the subject of extensive discussion:

- at the program level in the Daniels FALD
- in Faculty Meetings and in FALD Council
- between deans and vice/associate deans of FAS and the Daniels FALD
- with students including
 - the BA Architectural Studies Student Society with the Daniels FALD Architectural Studies Program Director, as well as with the FAS Acting Vice Dean Teaching and Learning
 - all the BA Architectural Studies undergraduate students, as well as current FAS students who form the prospective pool of BA Architectural Studies students, that is students enrolled in the prerequisite first year BA Architectural Studies course offered in the winter term,

In all meetings it was emphasized that: the academic rationale for the program will remain the same; program requirements will not be changed; all students in progress will be able to complete their program, with choices during the transition period as indicated in Section 5, below. BA Architectural Studies students who are currently enrolled in other FAS major or specialist will be able to complete their programs.

The proposal will be brought forward to Daniels Faculty Council on February 28, 2011 and Faculty of Arts and Science Council on March 7, 2011.

3. Program implications

The program being transferred is currently offered as a Honours BA. It will continue to be offered as a broad Liberal Arts program, in partnership with the Faculty of Arts and Science.

The transfer of the program from the FAS to the Daniels FALD will require a number of minor changes. These are outlined here and reflected in Appendix A: Revised Calendar Copy.

1. Admissions requirements.

As a Faculty of Arts and Science program, students currently declare their POST on successful completion of their first four credits. In contrast, effective September 2012, the program will be offered as a direct entry program and advertised as such. This will require a change in admission requirements to address requirements for direct entry from high school.

Current admissions requirements: Students must have completed 4.0 full courses or their equivalent, including ARC131H1 and ARC132H1. Minimum marks of at least 70% in both ARC131H1 and ARC132H1 are required. The student's Cumulative Grade Point Average would also be considered. Achieving minimum levels above does not guarantee admission.

Proposed admissions requirements:

Current Faculty of Arts & Science requirements for Humanities & Social Sciences:

- Ontario Secondary School Diploma or equivalent with six Grade 12 U/M subjects or equivalent, including English.
- The University of Toronto reserves the right to give preference students whose marks are the result of a single attempt at each course

2. Program description

The program description has been revised to reflect the fact that the program will be housed in the Daniels FALD – See Appendix A.

3. Course requirements

The Course requirements have not been changed but have been edited to reflect the fact that this will be a 4 year direct entry program; specifically the ARC131 and ARC132 will no longer be gateway courses, but instead will be core foundational requirements for all first year BA, Architectural Studies students. – See Appendix A.

4. Access to FAS courses

Many students currently enrolled in the BA Architectural Studies combine this with a second major program of study. Subject to a Letter of Intent, reviewed by the Office of the Vice-President and Provost, principles for a memorandum of understanding, to be signed by June 30, 2011, have been accepted by the FAS and the Daniels FALD that commit the Faculties to ensuring that BA, Architectural Studies students enrolled at Daniels will not be disadvantaged in access to selected courses and programs offered by FAS.

5. Faculty requirements

The Daniels FALD requirements for the BA Architectural Studies Major will be the same as those of the FAS, and are detailed in Appendix B.

4. Accommodation for Students Currently Enrolled in the Program

Student in progress at the time of the transfer will be given the option to complete their studies in FAS, or move to the Daniels FALD. There will be no impact on their program requirements or the type of degree conferred regardless of their home Faculty. Program requirements will remain the same. All students will be able to complete their program including completion of any another major or specialist that they may be enrolled in FAS. Students will be provided advising both from the FAS Registrar’s Office and by the Daniels FALD.

Current enrolment in the program is as follows:

2009-10 Undergraduate Architecture Student FTE by Major

Architecture Subject	Programs	Domestic	International	Grand Total

5. Financial and Planning Implications

Pending approval of the transfer of the Honours Bachelor of Arts, Architectural Studies Major program from FAS to the Daniels FALD current FAS students will be provided a choice of Faculty within which to complete their studies. All program and degree requirements will remain unchanged and graduating students will continue to receive a University of Toronto Honours Bachelor of Arts degree. Student transcripts will reflect the Faculty of enrolment.

If transfer approval is granted in April of the current 2010-2011 academic year, appropriate notice will appear in the 2011 FAS Calendar. Beginning September 2012 new undergraduate students entering the University will be admitted directly into the Daniels FALD, Honours Bachelor of Art, Architectural Studies Major program. Students will apply through the Ontario Universities' Application Centre (OUAC) to the Daniels Faculty. Program and degree requirements will be unchanged.

Table 1 illustrates the proposed transition period.

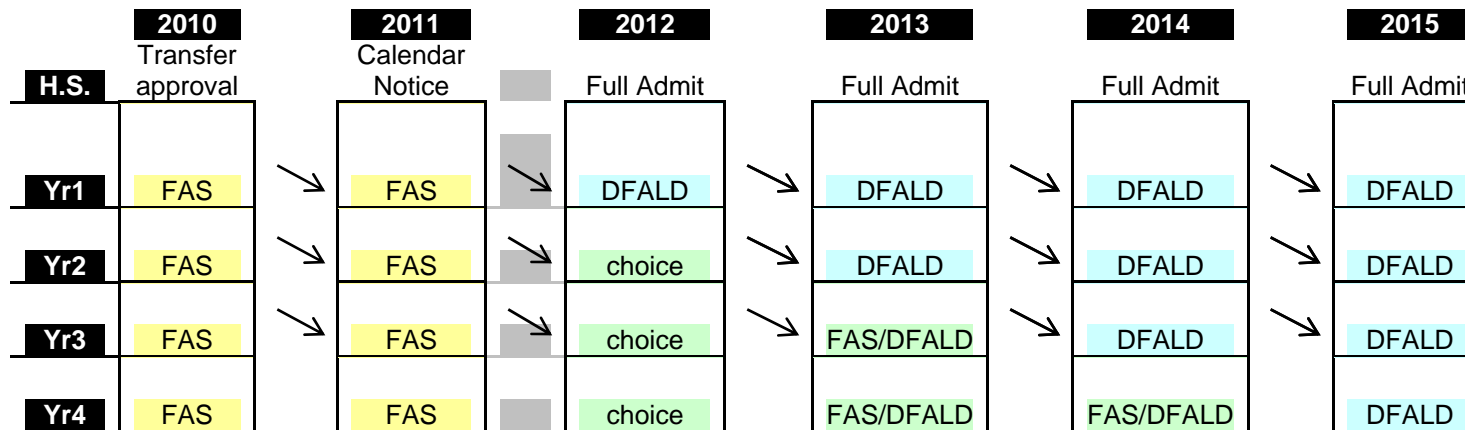

Table 1. Transition Matrix

The Daniels FALD currently delivers all courses required for the major in Architectural Studies and supports the program with administrative staff and an academic program director. This arrangement will continue and will be enhanced to provide students enrolled at the Daniels FALD access to FALD student and registrarial services, integrating with FAS administratively. Discussion of specific administrative protocols is underway between the FALD and the FAS Assistant Dean and Registrar.

Student fees will continue at current and currently planned levels for the Honours Bachelor of Art degree. Access to financial need based aid will be provided by the University's office of Admissions and Awards.

There are no new/additional financial resources at the University-level required for the proposed transfer of the BA Architectural Studies Major program. As of the 2012-13 enrolment, Basic Income Units (BIUs) will be assigned to FALD, on the basis of student registration. An agreement has been formalized between the two Faculties that delineates the principles that will shape the interdivisional arrangement allowing students to enrol in FAS courses as part of their degree requirements. There are no implications for faculty members or staff that will result from this proposal.

An interim project planning report for the expansion of the Daniels FALD is being developed that considers the space and facility requirements associated with the transfer of the BA Architectural Studies to the Daniels FALD. This is being brought forward for approval to the Planning Budget Committee on March 2, 2011.

Architectural Studies Courses

First Year Seminars

The 199Y1 and 199H1 seminars are designed to provide the opportunity to work closely with an instructor in a class of no more than twenty-four students. These interactive seminars are intended to stimulate the students' curiosity and provide an opportunity to get to know a member of the professorial staff in a seminar environment during the first year of study.

ARC131H1 Introduction to Architecture [24L]

A comprehensive introduction to the discipline, art and profession of architecture using case studies, both historical and contemporary, local and international.

DR=HUM; BR=1

ARC132H1 Contemporary Architecture [24L]

An introductory survey of contemporary international architecture that examines how design is responding to technological change, environmental degradation, accelerating globalization of economy and media, and the politics of regional and cultural identity.

ARC213H1 Architectural Design I [36P]

An introductory design studio that explores design issues and methods as they relate to constructed spaces and territories. The studio explores concepts of 'site' and 'place' as an introduction to the allied disciplines of architectural design, landscape architecture and urban design. The conventions of representation introduced in ARC221 are carried forward and applied to the set design problems.

Prerequisite: ARC221H1; Enrolment in an ARC program

ARC221H1 Architectural Representation I [36P]

A studio-based introduction to the conventions and techniques of graphic communication and visual representation in the design disciplines. The course serves as a hands-on introduction to drawing technique and theory, analytical drawing and diagramming, geometry and composition, and three-dimensional representation in drawing and model.
