Section 2

1. Brief Summary

This is a proposal for the closure of the Master of Religion program (a three-year second-entry undergraduate conjoint degree program providing a general academic foundation and specialized research in theological studies).

2. Rationale

The closure of this program is being recommended on a number of grounds:

1. Enrolment in the program has declined. In no year since 2003 has the number of new admissions exceeded three. Cohort sizes have therefore become educationally sub-optimal, and administrative support has become inefficient.
2. Another, newer conjoint degree program, the Master of Theological Studies, is available to meet the same general learning outcomes, and has attracted a strong and steady enrolment. (Although the M.T.S. requires only two years of study, compared with the three years required by the M.Rel., students desiring the greater depth that the M.Rel. program has historically delivered may now take the one-year Th.M. following the two-year M.T.S.)
3. The alternative M.T.S. program has a degree nomenclature that is more recognizable and current than the M.Rel. nomenclature.
4. A recent accreditation review by a visiting team from the Association of Theological Schools supports this decision.

3. Impact on other programs/units of the proposed closure

The impact is negligible. The principal and program director have met with the students in the M.Rel. program and offered the choice of continuing in the program to completion or being accommodated in the M.T.S. program. All students have indicated their intention to complete the M.Rel. If any should change their minds, they can be easily absorbed without any stress on resources. In particular, all M.Rel. courses can be transferred to the M.T.S. program for full credit, subject to prerequisite and distribution requirements in the M.T.S. program, which are in any event similar to those in the M.Rel. program.

4. Student Accommodation

Undergraduate

	Year one	Year two	Year three	Year four
Current enrolment	2	4	2	#n/a

5. Faculty / Staff Accommodation

There will be no impact on faculty or staff members as a result of the closure of the Master of Religion program.

6. Governance Process
