1. Chair’s Remarks

The Chair welcomed the attendees to the meeting. The Chair thanked the members and the Chairs for their service on the Executive Committee over the course of the governance year.

2. Report of the President

The President began his Report by referring to the University’s convocation ceremonies. He noted that several remarkable celebrations had already taken place, featuring honorary graduates Loretta Rogers, Dominic Barton, Ilse Treurnicht, and Richard Nunn. The President thanked Governors for participating in these celebrations.

The President noted that the Alumni Reunion week from May 30 to June 3, 2018 had been a great success. Among the many highlights of that week was the keynote address by the urbanist Jennifer Keesmat. Ms Keesmat’s lecture was called “Win, lose or draw: Housing in 21st century cities.”

Government Matters

The President reported that, on the Federal front, conversations continued with regard to the recommendations outlined in the Naylor Report, Investing in Canada’s Future – Strengthening the Foundations of Canadian Research. He noted that the advocacy efforts led by the U15 and Universities Canada, as well as U of T, in support of the Report had been influential. He also added that further work remained on seeking support for graduate scholarships and for the Research Support Fund (the indirect costs of research). The leadership of the U15 and Universities Canada had been encouraged by the willingness of the Federal government to consider changes, as recommended in the Report.

On the Provincial front, the Progressive Conservative Party had won the election with a strong majority government. Uncertainty remained on the direction that the incoming government would take with regard to post-secondary education as this sector had not been a major focus of the campaign by the Progressive Conservative Party. The University would continue its advocacy, with a special focus on the government’s transition.

A member expressed hope that some of the funding for mental health initiatives, as mentioned in the Progressive Conservative Party’s election platform, would be directed to the University. Members also expressed hope that the incoming government would recognize the economic impact of the province’s universities, and the critical role the universities play in providing graduates with a strong educational foundation as well as with the skills for job-readiness across a myriad of sectors.
Chancellor’s Circle of Benefactors

The President said that the new Chancellor’s Circle of Benefactors, an initiative of the Division of University Advancement (DUA), was launched in May. The Circle recognized the University’s friends and supporters who had made gifts of $5 million or more. As part of the initiative, members’ names are engraved in stone and displayed on a wall in the foyer of Simcoe Hall.

QS World University Rankings

The President reported that in the most recent QS World University Rankings, the University had moved up three places from the previous year to 28th, and continued to be the top-ranked Canadian university. McGill University (33rd) and the University of British Columbia (44th) were the other two Canadian universities in the top 100 for these rankings.

In concluding his Report, the President reiterated the Chair’s thanks to the members, noting the important role that the Chair and the Executive Committee played in providing strategic advice to the Senior Administration.

3. Item for Endorsement and Forwarding to the Governing Council

a. University-Mandated Leave of Absence Policy

The Provost provided a comprehensive introduction to, and an overview of, the proposed Policy. She began by noting that the Policy was a response to reports of the previous Ombudsperson which expressed concern about the University’s ability to address – in a non-punitive way – students who were engaging in concerning behaviour that may be due to serious mental health distress or other health issues. She noted that consultation on the Policy had been robust over an 18-month period, and that a number of changes had been made to the Policy as a direct result of consultation with students. These changes amplified and clarified key points in the Policy, including the supports that would be available to students in need. A university-mandated leave of absence would only be considered once all other supports for the student had been explored, including support within the student’s division. The Policy also formalized a Student Support Team, and established the option of a voluntary leave of absence in circumstances where the Policy would apply.

The Provost stressed the need for the Policy. She noted that, at present, the administration was limited to punitive actions in these rare cases, including action under the Code of Student Conduct and the academic penalties of probation or suspension for one or more terms. The Policy, on the other hand, was focussed on providing the necessary assistance to allow students to get well and continue their studies. The Provost also outlined the built-in accountability described in the Policy, yearly reports to the University Affairs Board and a three-year review of the Policy. The administration will also engage in ongoing dialogue with the University’s Ombudsperson about the Policy’s implementation.
Mr. Andrew Szende provided the highlights of the discussion on this proposed Policy at the University Affairs Board; and Prof. Ernest Lam provided the highlights of the discussion of this item at the Academic Board.

In the discussion that followed:

- The Provost said that the Ontario Human Rights Commissioner had communicated to the administration that the revised iteration of the proposed Policy had addressed many of the concerns raised earlier, with two technical matters remaining. The Provost said that the administration has sought external and internal legal counsel and was advised that the proposed Policy had adequately addressed these matters.
- A member commented on the timing of the consultation and said that, in her opinion, the proposed Policy could be improved with further consultation. Another member sought clarity on the threshold to trigger the implementation of the Policy. The Provost noted that a fundamental divide existed between the administration and some members of the University community on whether the proposed Policy should be put in place, and that further consultation would not bridge this divide.
- Members remarked on the urgency of having the proposed Policy in place. Several members noted that the administration had engaged in a long consultative process with various stakeholders, including students; and that the annual reporting and the robust accountability process would allow for the Policy to be amended as needed.
- The President remarked that the proposed Policy articulated a clear pathway for any affected students to return to studies.
